

Welcome to Google Editions

Our goal is to make it easier for readers to find books, whenever and wherever they're looking for them, at retailers across the web. We hope you'll join us as we strive to create the web's largest and most useful ebook platform, for publishers, retailers and customers alike.

For Publishers

Google Editions lets you harness the power of the cloud to sell ebooks more cheaply and easily than ever. Just tell us which titles you'd like to sell, and we'll create Google Editions from existing scans, or from PDFs and ePub files that you supply. You set the price and control, copy, paste and print settings; you can even sell Google Editions through your own site if you want.

For Retailers

Google Editions supports retailers—whether they're just entering the ebook market or looking to expand their offerings—by providing the content and code to power ebooks that can be read on any device, letting publishers embrace the merchandising power of retailers across the web.

For Readers

Google Editions puts a universal bookstore at readers' fingertips, letting them buy ebooks anytime, anywhere (from retailers, publishers or Google), and then read them on any device, including the e-reader that almost everyone already has: their own phone.

Get Unbound

To sign up, log into your Partner Center (books.google.com/partner) and go to the Google Editions tab. Contact your account manager or books-support@google.com with questions.